WILSON WITH PRESIDENT

WILSON THROUGH OREGON
Sept. 16—Death broke in on the presidential party at Portland and its tragic impress left the President in no mood for speech-making. Reluctantly did he carry out his program of two speeches in Portland. No other addresses were scheduled until Wednesday at San Francisco and the presidential party leaves Oregon with depressed spirits and downcast hearts.

The people here greeted the President peace treaty and did not hesitate enthusiastically and but for the recently to criticize. Senator Lodge's report on the ground that it reflected the visit to Oregon might have been one of the most triumphant of the whole tour.

For sentiment in Oregon is unquestionably in favor of a League of Nations. Even so staunch and influential a newspaper as the Portland Oregonian whose republicanism is beyond question, its desire would appear to be that the members of the so-called "moderationists" group whose friendliness to the league has been steadfast throughout the controversy. Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, is standing by the President.

Both of Oregon's senators, therefore support the league but wants reservations. Not long ago one of these newspapers conducted a straw vote and 28,000 people voted for the League as against a few hundred against. Senator McNary, Republican, has from time to time expressed himself in favor of the league and is one of the leaders of the reservationists. His attitude is that the members of the League of Nations' group whose friendliness to the league has been steadfast throughout the controversy. Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, is standing by the President.

Both of Oregon's senators, therefore oppose the League but want the League and treaty but in Oregon there is absolutely no sympathy with that attitude. There is far more interest in why Mr. Wilson opposes reservation than in the arguments of those who oppose him. The people would generally favor the unqualified adoption of the terms of the covenant and its application, but the impression prevails that the League of Nations' group whose friendliness to the league has been steadfast throughout the controversy. Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, is standing by the President.

President Answers Hurricane Death Toll The Irish Question Estimated About 250

PRESIDENT REPLIES TO QUESTIONERS

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Sept. 17.—President Woodrow Wilson arrived here at 9:30 o'clock today to secure a special ferry boat from the Holland mole.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WHISON'S SPECIAL, Sept. 17.—Setting forth publicly for the first time his interpretation of the League of Nations' covenant as it affected Ireland, President Wilson said in a statement today that the League would constitute a forum before which could be brought all claims for self-determination which are likely to affect the peace of the world.

"The covenant would not bind the United States to assist in putting down rebellion in any foreign country," he asserted, "nor would it limit the power of this country to recognize the independence of any people who seek to secure freedom."

He said Ireland's case was not heard at Versailles because it did not come within the jurisdiction of the peace conference.

The president's statement was in reply to a series of questions sent to him by the San Francisco labor committee. It is understood that within a few days he will reply similarly to questions put by other labor bodies regarding Shantung and the representation of the British dominions in the League assembly.

Replying directly to a question as to the attitude toward self-determination for Ireland, Mr. Wilson said his position was expressed in Article 11 of the covenant, under which it is declared that any member nation can call the attention of the League to any circumstance whatever, affecting international relations, which threatens to damage international peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends."

The president's statement detailing the labor council's questions and his answers follows:

1. Under the covenant does the nation delegate itself to assist any member of the League in putting down a rebellion of its subjects or conquered peoples?

ANSWER.—It does not.

Germans Coveted Channel Ports; Hoped To Capture Them In Drive

GERMANS NOT STRIKING AT PARIS, BUT TRYING TO DRAW TROOPS FROM FLANDERS IN LAST OFFENSIVE

They Reached Their Objective, Says Ludendorff, But Admits German Army Was Trapped in Marne Pocket by General's Failure to Act.

The movement of the prodigious means of attack, the supply and storage of ammunition, the concentration of the divisions, and, not least, the utilization of the experience gained in the last attack, all these things and many others took time. That was a disadvantage, but with the forces actually available, it could not be altered.

The most favorable operation in Flanders was to continue the attack on the English Army at Ypres and Bailleul; but on that front the enemy was now so strong in numbers that it was impossible, even with rested troops. Before we could attack here again the enemy must become weaker, and our communications must be supplemented. Further south conditions were similar. Besides, the Somme area (the devastated region which the Germans were now forced to hold) afforded too little cover for the necessary preliminary work.

In front of the 5th and 1st Arztes (west of Rheims and along the Chemin-des-Dames) the enemy was weak. Troops had been sent from here to Ypres and replaced tired English divisions. The strong positions on the hills certainly took difficult to attack. But if our own artillery had done its work well, only the difficulties of the ground would remain to be dealt with. They undoubtedly were considerable, but easier to overcome than those we encountered on the Italian frontier on the 21st of October, 1917.

Early in April the Group of the German Crown Prince was directed to submit a plan for an attack between Picard and Rheims.

PITIFUL SCENES IN SOUTH

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS, Sept. 17.—Fifteen additional storm victims were brought to the temporary morgue here today, bringing the known death list in this tropical hurricane which swept this section last Sunday. The total known dead now exceeds 160, including 59 at Portland, 39 at White Point and 11 at Rockport, according to reports here.

The most reliable estimates here today place the loss of life at Corpus Christi, Port Aransas and Aransas Pass at about 250. The bodies being recovered today are in such condition that identification will be almost impossible. A deluging rain began falling this forenoon, handicapping relief workers and adding to the suffering of the homeless.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS, Sept. 17.—Today, more than 70 hours after the tropical hurricane and tidal wave that tore huge rents in this Texas coast city and environs, it will still be impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the loss of life or damage to property.

Each report from searchers, however, revealed the increasing magnitude of the disaster. It was believed that it might be a week or more before its true extent was known.

"The great piles of wreckage strewn from one end of the city to the other may conceal numerous bodies, it is believed, and today hundreds of men were at work exploring them."

Officials generally were agreed that the death list would be in excess of 100 and some unofficial estimates placed it as high as between 200 and 300 with hundreds of persons injured or suffering from exposure.

Estimates of the property loss varied from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

The best available information here today placed the known dead in Corpus Christi at 47. Seventy-seven bodies, all blackened and bruised, were reported to have been washed ashore last night on the northern side of Nueces Bay, upon which Corpus Christi is situated. Of the 27 bodies, the report said, 28 were taken from West Portland, 29

Isolate Fiume As Italy Acts To End Revolt

LONDON, Sept. 17—Fiume has been isolated from the world by the Italian government, which is apparently taking steps to meet the situation that has arisen through the action of Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio, in forcibly taking possession of the city and forcing allied and Jugoslav forces to leave. The veil of censorship was drawn yesterday, and since that time little has been learned of events in the city.

The Jugoslav peace delegation in Paris has issued a statement indicating that Italian regular troops are moving on the city. The Italian Ambassador Dante Alighieri is said to have been damaged by her crew and has been unable to leave the port of Fiume. French, American and British delegations, which were in the city at the time of D'Annunzio's coup, are reported to have boarded ships and departed.

A ROAR OF WELCOME TO VETERANS IN HOME-MADE CIDER, WINES NOT BARRED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17—Amid a roar of welcome, General Pershing led the first division of the American expeditionary forces up Pennsylvania Avenue today to receive the nation's heroes.

It was the last grand review of the war-time armories, the victory parade, the final chapter for the hundreds of thousands of men, women and children jostled along the route, to voice appreciation of the valor and daring of that army, and they made the most of it.

The procession reached its climax as the men, who repulsed all the fighting forces of the nation in the great storms and cold, and for domestic use the example passed through the victory arches toward the reviewing stand, where Vice President Marshall stood, representing President Wilson, to receive the general salute. Behind him the picked thousands of the composite regiment, "Pershing's own," formed a wall of bayoneted faces as they stood in line with machine-like precision. The din was deafening as they passed, rank on rank, the first division marching along with勇猛 strides through the great air hung behind them.

From the general himself to the last man of the tiny battalions that brought up the rear of the marching column, this perfect drilling practice a shock division of the American Army in the war was groomed to regular army perfection. Men, horses and mules, the last battle and the final touch of paint were completely equipped and spick for inspection.

There was no need of waxworm gear to tell of their deeds, the glories of gold were available.

132nd Anniversary Of Formation Of U. S. Constitution

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17—Columbus in common with other cities of the country, today celebrated the 132nd anniversary of the formation of the constitution of the United States.

Governor Cox issued a proclamation ending with this paragraph:

"It is well at this time, when liberty has been confused with other meanings by those who have come here from foreign shores with wrong philosophies, to give thought to what the basis of our government is and must continue to be."

Patriotic and civic societies held a meeting here today at which the constitution of the United States was compared to the Soviet constitution of Russia. School children made a special study of the constitution today.

PITTSBURGH, PA., Sept. 17.—The national committee for organizing iron and steel workers went into session here shortly before noon today to take definite action on the matter of postponing the strike of iron and steel workers called for September 22.

Before going into the meeting John Fitzpatrick, Chicago, chairman of the national committee, said that unless there was a "lost minute" telegram from Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, no postponement of the strike, as requested by President Wilson until after the industrial conference at Washington, October 6, would be considered.

Fitzpatrick said the men were fully organized and prepared to walk out next Monday.

The meeting of the national committee today was called primarily to make preparations for the proposed strike.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 17—To present the big issues of the hour in state and national politics fully, promptly and fairly, is the announced purpose of the Buckeye Democrat, a new periodical issued by the Democratic state executive committee. S. E. Godkin, secretary of the committee, is the editor.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17—A general walkout of steel workers in the Chicago district, estimated to number 15,000, at 6 o'clock Monday morning may be called unless E. H. LONDON, Sept. 17—Premier Lloyd George's return to England last night from his vacation at Deauville, France, and a brief visit to Paris, will be followed tonight by his address to the Trades Union Congress, and while in view of the extreme political and economic unrest prevalent in the country, is awaited with keenest curiosity and interest.

BEDS TAKE MORE TERRITORY

LONDON, Sept. 17—A Bed-rock wireless message says that through the miles of the tropics on the Turkistan front, with those of the Turkistan field enormous territory has been added to central Russia. This territory has rich stores of raw materials, food and cotton of which 24,000 tons

ONLY WORD FROM GARY WILL AVERT STEEL STRIKE

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 17—A city-wide celebration of the winning of the National League baseball pennant by the Cincinnati Nationals, is proposed by Mayor John Galvin.

The mayor at present is attending the Ebbets' state reunion at Columbus, but as soon as he returns to Cincinnati, he will call a conference of representatives of civic and business organizations, amateur and semi-professional ball organizations and other bodies representative of the community as a whole to plan a great jubilee that may take the form of a neighborhood holiday.

It is felt certain that Governor Cox and other state officials gladly would join in making the celebration a state affair and that by this method the neighboring cities across the Ohio river in Kentucky could also participate.

The tremendous interest throughout the country in the great fight by the Reds was manifested within an hour after the game that decided the pennant fight had been played, yesterday afternoon.

Messages of congratulation to the Cincinnati club's backsliders arrived all day. President August Herrman received hundreds of calls over the telephone and many personal congratulations from Cincinnati and Muscatine. Moran also was kept busy accepting felicitations.

MONTON, Sept. 17.—Although nine-tenths of the unions affiliated with the Boston Central Labor Union have voted to support the police in the strike, in their strike for union recognition, according to a statement made at a meeting of the police union last night by Frank H. McFarthy, local organizer of the American Federation of Labor, asserted today this did not account for any hampered general strike.

It was the general feeling among labor men that there would be no definite change in the situation until after the meeting of the Central Labor Union next Saturday, at which report of the strike votes taken during the week will be received from the local unions.

ASHLAND, Ky., Sept. 17.—John Doe No. 1 is the name given to a man held by police headquarters whom the police say holds the record in the Doe class and is entitled to go to the head.

The man who is a traveling saw filer and fixes clocks or any old thing dropped into police headquarters late Monday afternoon and complained that he was ill and asked to rest for a short while.

His valise was taken charge of and he was placed behind the bars in what is known as the search room and was not placed in a cell.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Monday night the fellow awoke the echoes with a blood curdling yell, picked up the stove that is in the corridor, tore it from its connections and threw it against the wall.

The stove and pipe were wrecked. Then fell after yell came from his lips and he literally foamed at the mouth. Patrolman Fritz was desk duty and went in after the fellow and a battle royal took place.

SOCIETY

The following item of local interest is taken from the Galion Enquirer of Monday, September 16:

"On Saturday evening, at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Dickerson, four miles southeast of Galion, occurred one of the prettiest weddings of the season.

The bride, Miss Mary E. Dickerson, is popular and accomplished young woman. She was educated in the local schools and Ohio Wesleyan University, following this later by taking professional studies at Wooster. For several years she has been an unusually successful teacher, devoting her energy entirely to primary work in which she is much interested.

The groom, Mr. Robert Blaine Stokley, of Portsmouth, Ohio, is a division engineer of the Big Four railroad. He is a graduate of Ohio Northern University and is a young man of marked ability.

"Promptly, at eight o'clock, to the strains of Medea's wedding march, the bridal party appeared. The ribbon-bearers, Harriet Dickerson and Miss Passow, smiling joyfully over white orange, led the party, followed by little Misses Helen Stevens and Mary Abbie Dickerson, as flower girls dressed in pink, all four being nieces of the bride.

"The bride was very beautiful in a gown of white satin and georgette, wearing veil of net and carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

"The marriage was solemnized by Rev. C. H. La Rue, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist Episcopal church, in the presence of relatives of the bride and groom and other intimate friends.

The impressive ring ceremony being used.

"After the ceremony an elaborate four course supper was served, six young girls in white, former pupils of the bride, acting as waitresses. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in table decorations and throughout the entire house, actors being used in profusion.

"Among the guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prude and son Frederick of Portsmouth; Misses Mary and Blanche Stokley, sisters of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Dickerson and their daughters of Springfield, O.; Mrs. Chas. F. Hoboken, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Denman and son Benton, of Indianapolis; O.; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Appling, of Marion, O.; and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. La Rue of St. Paul.

"Mr. and Mrs. Stokley left on Big Four train No. 9 for Denver and Colorado Springs. They were accompanied to the train by several auto loads of hilarious friends, who showered them well with confetti and rice as they were leaving. After an extended trip Mr. and Mrs. Stokley will reside at Mt. Carmel, Ile."

"It's a happy reunion, and it's good to last for quite a while," Mrs. Leonard said smiling. "She and I are going to make up for some of the lost time."

"Each of the sisters is quite elderly."

Mrs. Leonard's sister, Columbus, with her husband. They plan an extended visit.

By recommending Nerv-Worth for the Benefits Derived Were Simply Wonderful.

This late contribution to Nerv-Worth fame, given to Uniontown's Nerv-Worth druggist, forms one of the most remarkable tributes ever paid to a medicine:

While H. Gurney—I have been in poor health for a long time. Sleepless and restless at night and when I did a day's work would feel weak and almost exhausted. My reduction in weight had become alarming. I was almost disengaged with my failure to regain my former strength and vigor when the merits of Nerv-Worth were brought to my attention by a friend.

I immediately purchased a bottle and in a few days began to improve. I have now taken three bottles and the change that this wonderful medicine has made in me is beyond words of expression: I work at the very hardest kind of work now every day and eat and sleep like I never did before again. ABOUT HAVING YOUR EYES EXAMINED

You can of course do as you wish about it. But if you need our services, and don't get them, you are the loser. And you will continue to be the loser until you place before your eyes a pair of lenses that will correct the defects. There are two things you can do—keep on straining your eyes, or have us give you relief once and for all. The choice should not be hard to make.

Several months ago the ordinances were read three times and were defeated.

The Markets

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Over-night movements pointing to fresh uncertainties in the steel labor situation and authoritative denial of any immediate plan to pay back dividends on armament marine preferred provoked moderate selling of industries and declines at the opening of today's stock market. In no important instance, however, did the reaction extend much beyond a point. Bullish set in almost immediately on the renewed strength shown by stocks and equipments, also motor specialties. United States Steel's loss of almost a point was soon recovered.

The market became extremely irregular after the first rally, stocks losing their gains with equipments. Another recovery was followed by further selling in which several leaders fell under previous quotations. At noon oil and motors became the features. Texas Company gained 6 points and General Motors 6 1/2. Prices otherwise declined downward. The market for call money was easy at 4 percent, but bonds exchanged showed greater weakness with new low records for remittances to France and Italy, also to Germany and Austria. Steeling declined to within a small fraction of its minimum quotation.

Free selling for both accounts occurred in the early and intermediate stages of today's active stock market on the more critical labor situation. Losses were materially reduced in the later dealings. Sales approximated 1,260,000 shares.

The floating was heavy.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much oil. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harsh. Multifried coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else, you can save for shampooing, as this can possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonsful will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The latter rinses out easily and removes every particle of dirt, dust, fat and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

Get Multifried coconut oil shampoo at your drug store. It is very cheap, and a few drops is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

W. S. S. DRIVE IS SPEEDING UP

With a steadiness not to be gainsaid, Mark W. Selby, chairman of the W. S. S. committee in Scioto County said today that he is well pleased with the results of the amount of work done so far this week.

The actual results of the drive are anxiously awaited by all citizens who are following its progress with keen interest.

DR. BLANKEMEYER AND FAMILY HAVE A CLOSE CALL IN SOUTHERN HURRICANE

Although Portsmouth has not felt the effects of the terrible storm now sweeping over Texas, a Portsmouth citizen, well known here, Dr. Herman Blankemeyer, had practically all his property destroyed, and with his family barely escaped with life from the hurricane which leveled Aransas Pass, Texas.

Charles G. Blankemeyer, 401 Court street, a brother-in-law, received a telegram last night stating in brief: "Hurricanes. All safe, but must leave when we can. Sending daughter Ruth to you with sister. Lost everything."

Mrs. Anna Becker, mother of Russell Becker, 921 Gay street, who has been making her home with her brother, Dr. Blankemeyer, is the sister referred to in the telegram. She and eleven-year-old Ruth Blankemeyer are expected here soon. Dr. Blankemeyer owned extensive property in Aransas Pass and suffered so far inestimable loss during the storm.

That they escaped with their lives is considered almost miraculous, considering the force of the storm which left in its wake the destroyed homes of the citizens.

Mrs. P. S. Revare, of Fourth street, is a sister of Dr. Blankemeyer. He is a brother of Will Blankemeyer, well-known Chillicothe street tailor.

Palie and Dan Hensley and Ambrose Austin were the names given by two men who were arrested for gambling.

The five defendants gave bond after being taken to police headquarters for their appearance for trial this evening.

I think you will find the majority of men anxious to please you by staying in the bounds of propriety. It may be that you have never been so tormented by your love as I am. With all my heart according to the wishes of a man who is in love with you, you can still keep from him what you called it "toughly" if only you return the love he wants to? I love him, but do you think he is worthy of my love, if he refuses to come to see me unless he can do as we please? He says all fellows are alike and that if I go out with my other fellow, I will find that they are just like himself. Is this true, Dolly, and will I never find a fellow who thinks us I do? I always thought that a man who wants to marry a girl wants a girl who will not allow him any privilege at all. Am I right? Should I let him come back if he wants to? I think you in advance fit for your kindness in publishing and

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1853 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-solid form. In 1882 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK'S named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate, has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

Ask for HORLICK'S—Avoid Imitations

what he did and again it may be that he is foolish and not to be trusted. You are the judge of that. One can't afford so don't try to do it. Everyone likes to be loved. It is a very human failing and quite risky, so unless you are able to return the man's affection you had better wait for the man who will think as you do.

Dear Miss Wise—As my husband, his brother and sister and I were returning home from a drive about midnight, a distance of about three miles, my sister-in-law and I some distance behind a car with four boys came along and asked my sister-in-law not to ride. We got in and rode out in safety and in half to where the road turned off to our home and got out and stood and talked until my husband and his brother came up. My husband was so angry he threatened to leave me and says he will not live with me. We have three girls. Can you tell me what the law grants a mother and three children in this case? He says he is willing to pay any reasonable amount.

WORRIED WIFE

Your husband is most probably a good man and you have nothing to do but trust him. If you were a good mother you would be the best husband should give you. It is impossible to say what

Mothers' Advice

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The tight influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl. When a girl's thoughts become sluggish with headaches, dizziness, or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs and a desire for solitude, her mother should run to her aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of this medicine, and what it has done for their daughters.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 12 years old, very sickly and pale and she had been suffering from headache, dizziness and was without appetite. For 3 months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I did not know what to do. I read in the paper about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now she sleeps soundly and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters"—Mrs. M. Foxworth, 163 Marey Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE VALUE OF DIAMONDS

Thirty years ago a one-carat diamond of good quality could be purchased for $125.00. Ten years later the price more than doubled. In another decade the price had reached $350.00 and today the price of a carat stone of standard color and fine brilliancy is $500.00 and upward.

EXPERTS PREDICT

In another five years diamonds will cost $1000.00 per carat—these are facts—Invest your money in one of our fine diamonds and have the pleasure of wearing it while the value is increasing. Don't wait until another advance takes place, select it now, our stock is complete in sizes of only fine gem stones and prices based on purchases made some time ago. We will assist you in saving advances by laying aside the purchase made now. Come in and let us explain diamonds more fully.

$1,150 Raised

Late reports made to Mrs. W. A. Eichelberger, chairman of the Tag Day Committee, who had in charge the tag sale of Saturday, show that $1,150 has been raised.

Announcement was made Sunday that the sale of tags had brought over

The later reports have far exceeded the hopes of the committee.

Mrs. Eichelberger reports that there are still a few sales ladies to hear from, but that the present amount is not expected to be greatly exceeded.

Cauliffe Refuses

Edward Cauliffe, of P. H. S. football team refused the first scrimage game Tuesday afternoon at 10th and Findlay streets between the Varsity and second team of P. H. S.

Cauliffe is out of practice for a few days, owing to the injury he received to his arm this summer and which is still little sore. He will probably resume practice at quart; which he has held down for the past two years, next week.

Long before this no one could have lived in it. The accumulated dust and dirt, which is fairly easy to down day by day, would have so clogged the quarters that they would be uninhabitable.

Your Colon is the house where your health lives. It has different "rooms" in which your daily physical welfare "lives". These "rooms" are long and narrow. So they are easily clogged. And when constipation clogs them, your health has to get along the best it can in a home that isn't fit to live in, any more than a house clogged up with dust and dirt is fit for you and your family to live in.

Nujol is the broom that will keep this "home of health" in perfect order all the time.

Nujol is the only balsam that will do this without turning things top-heavy and upsetting all the "rooms" used as house-cleaning does.

By daily use of Nujol you can free yourself from all the disagreeable discomfort and inconvenience that comes from a clogged colon.

Nujol is not a medicine. Not the least particle of it is absorbed into the system. It is a clear, tasteless, odorous, absolutely HARMLESS softener and lubricant. A baby can take it with perfect safety. It doesn't upset the stomach or anything else. It simply keeps the bowels of your health CLEAN and COMFORTABLE.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist-to-day, and read for free booklet—"Trinity of Danger."

Additional Statistics On Safety Department

The following is another installment of the state examiner's report on the safety department. Installments of the report will be published in The Times from day to day.

SUSTENANCE OF PRISONERS

As per the statement of Joseph Stokley, turnkey of the police department, the prisoners confined in the station house are furnished three meals per day, each meal consisting of one-third of a loaf of bread, two links of sausage and a cup of coffee. The coffee is made and the sausage cooked in the station house by the turnkey. As per the sworn testimony of Mr. Stokley and Fred Wessel, who acted as turnkey during the absence or disability of Mr. Stokley, the prisoners are at no time given any other food than as above stated.

The vouchers on file with the city auditor disclosed the payment of the following amounts from the appropriation "Sustenance of Prisoners," during the period audited:

|--|-----------------|----------|
| Mar. 1-Dec. 31 | Jan. 1-Sept. 30 | |
| Sausage | $38.10 | $375.56 |
| Bread | 332.29 | 313.72 |
| Coffee and sundry articles | 57.42 | 56.55 |
| Total paid for sustenance of prisoners | $943.51 | $948.12 |

The sausage was furnished by Adam Gleser and Company. The bread, except in two instances, by Jacob Pfau, and the sundry supplies by Judge Bellamy and Son. In the sundry supplies are certain articles, in the way of soap, cleansers and more, used in the cleaning of the station house.

As per the foregoing financial statement there was expended for sustenance of prisoners, during the period March 1, 1917 to September 30, 1918, $1,889.63, or an average daily expenditure during said period of $3.27.

As per the register of arrests and the dockets of the mayor's court, during a period of nineteen months there were 4,700 arrests. While not all of the parties arrested were incarcerated in the city prison or furnished meals by the turnkey, yet we are of the opinion that the average cost per day, for the sustenance of prisoners, would not exceed the statutory limit of forty cents per day for each prisoner.

Under the provisions of Section 4125, General Code, it is made the duty of the chief of police to provide all persons confined in the station house with necessary food and to see that such places of confinement are kept clean and comfortable for the inmates.

As per the provisions of Section 4126, General Code, it is made the duty of council, by ordinance, to provide for sustaining all prisoners so confined, at the expense of the corporation, but the amount provided shall not exceed forty cents per day for any person so confined.

The laws in this particular should be strictly observed and the amount of food furnished should never exceed in cost the statutory limit.

In order to determine certain articles had been delivered to the city and, if delivered, for what purpose they were used, a special examination was held January 20, 1919, lugger being had of Judge Bellamy, Joseph Stokley, Fred Wessel, Frank Dressler, Henry Clark and H. B. Johnson.

The testimony adduced tended to show that, save the articles marked "a," "b," "c," all of the articles listed were received at the police station and used. Judge Bellamy, of the firm of Judge Bellamy and Son, stated that to the best of his knowledge, all of the articles as noted, and for which he received payment were delivered to the mayor's office. He stated that there might have been some errors in the invoice but he was of the opinion that there were not. It was also stated by Mr. Bellamy that Joseph Stokley telephoned him to deliver to a man by the name of Dressler anything that he might want and to charge the amount of same to the city; that, acting under said order, he did deliver a number of articles in the invoice to Mr. Dressler.

Frank Dressler, a "meat do well" of the city, who made the police station his lodging place from April 1916 to the latter part of November, 1918, stated that he, during a period of over two years, assisted Joseph Stokley, the turnkey, in cleaning the city prison and in doing whatever cooking that might be necessary in preparing the food for the prisoners. He stated that for said services all he received was his board and lodging and a little change once in a while; that in addition to the regular menu of the prisoners he was permitted by the turnkey to procure at times certain extra articles of food to be used by himself; that he did procure such articles from Judge Bellamy and Son, either direct or through delivery. The attention of Mr. Dressler was called to various items listed and upon examination he stated that most of them were received and used by him. He stated, however, that, aside from the canned beans, there were no beans used at the station house after April, 1916, except a part of a sack of beans that were at the station house when he first went there; that when those were all used there were no more delivered except on one occasion when there was one dollar's worth of bulk beans delivered, but the same, not having been ordered, were returned. He testified that there was a small sack of cornmeal delivered but that none of it was used and that it remained at the station a few days and then disappeared; what became of it he did not know.

As per the statement of Mr. Dressler mustard was presented frequently but pepper very seldom, and he was certain that no such quantity of pepper as listed in the invoices was received.

Mr. Clark, chief of police, and Mr. Johnson, clerk to the mayor, who approved the invoices and transmitted them to the auditor for payment, stated that, except on a few occasions, no check was made of the invoices to determine as to whether the articles therein were delivered, and from personal knowledge they did not know whether or not such articles were delivered. They also stated that Frank Dressler, during the period March 1, 1917 to November 29, 1918, was not a prisoner at the station house neither was he brought before the mayor's court on any charge filed against him.

Mr. Stokley, the turnkey, testified that it was his duty as such turnkey to keep the mayor's office and the city prison in a sanitary and clean condition and to furnish the prisoners with food. He testified that Frank Dressler was permitted to lodge at the station house; that he was furnished with food and an account of the work done by him in the way of assisting in cleaning the city prison and police station, and cooking the sausage and making coffee for the prisoners, he was permitted to procure for himself extra articles of food; that he told Judge Bellamy and Son to give him what he might order; that the items listed were procured by Mr. Dressler and used by him. He also stated that the prisoners were fed only bread, sausage and coffee.

The foregoing is an epitome of the testimony adduced in the investigation.

It is our opinion that, with the exception of the beans delivered January 31, 1918, all of the articles in question were furnished by Judge Bellamy and Son. The beans, in the amount of $1.00, were undeniably returned and there was failure to give the city credit to the same.

We are convinced that the statements of Mr. Dressler are correct and that the articles specifically noted by him, as not having been received and used, were undoubtedly delivered to the station house but were taken and used by some one who knew about the delivery of such articles and who had access to the same. Who such party or parties may have been it was not disclosed at the trial. Such a condition is indicative of negligence upon the part of those who have charge in charge, and for their failure to protect the interests of the city they are deserving of the most scathing criticism. It is the duty of the chief of police, who under the law is required to furnish subsistence for prisoners, and the turnkey, who under the supervision of the chief and has direct charge of the receiving of the supplies and the feeding of the prisoners, to see that only such food stuffs as are ordered are delivered; that when the articles are delivered they tally with the inclosed charge slip, and when received they are protected and used for no other purpose than that for which they were purchased. Other than such a course will not be a compliance with the duties of such officers nor relieve them from deserved criticism. It is not commendable to the vigilance of the police department that they should permit any of the supplies of the city, especially those to be used by their own department and under their own immediate control, to clandestinely disappear.

The duty of the turnkey, as per his testimony, is to keep the station house, the police headquarters and the mayor's office in a clean condition, and to prepare the food and feed these that may be incarcerated in the city jail. For this service he receives his remuneration from the city.

There is no authority vested in him to employ any one to assist him in his work and by so doing oblige the city in any way. If he desired to procure the services of any one to assist him in his work, the same might not be any objection should the work be just as satisfactorily done and the services were paid for from individual funds. Mr. Dressler was not a prisoner of the city nor was he under any obligation to it in the way of favors and costs. Once the city had no claim on his services in the way of discharging any obligation of his. Neither was the city obligated to him in that it was called upon to furnish him with lodgings and food.

We made no investigation as to the cost of the food furnished Mr. Dressler by the city, other than the special articles listed, but its cost, based by the amount paid by the city for food stuffs, would not be less than thirty cents per day. However, no finding is made on said account, but in view of the facts above stated, and the low appraisement the news, a table for the city to favor of the City of Portsmouth is herewith rendered against Judge Bellamy and Son, for $1.00, the amount of the beans delivered and retained January 31, 1918, and against Joseph Stokley in the amount of $22.78, the cost of the special articles ostensibly purchased through the order of Joseph Stokley for Frank Dressler who was engaged by Mr. Stokley to assist him in the work he was required to do under his duties as turnkey.

While the amount involved is inconsequential yet the principle underlying the transaction is just as potent as if the amount had been much greater. We are informed that the practice has been discontinued. We trust that it may not again be resorted to. It is the duty of every city and employee of the municipality to steward and protect its interests, and this duty is to serve the less potential because the efforts of employee may occupy a minor or obscure heart is remarkable. At the same time, it is the duty of every citizen, containing in their blood, to be a true son of his country, to be a true son of the whole world.

Oh Boy! Joyous Reds Beat Giants And Cinch The Pennant

Select the Champion Reds. They won the National League flag yesterday when they again defeated their nearest rival, the Giants, 4 to 3. When New York dropped this game the club was put out of the running. It can win all its other games and the Reds lose all of theirs but the Morgan men would finish in front.

The Reds drove Toney from the box yesterday and by clever outfit playing overtook the Giants and finished ahead of them after their opponents got away with a two run lead in the opening stanza.

The Reds came right back and made three runs on solid hitting. The Giants tied it up in the fourth and the Reds dug it out in the seventh on Schreiber's double, Harber's sacrifice and Schreiber's clean steal of home.

The Giants may win another pennant but not this year.

pitching force? That is a question for you to settle to suit yourself, Mr. Fan.

Many fans will argue that Roush has performed like the finished player that he is but no one man can ever hope to win a pennant by himself. If this were true Ty Cobb would win every year for Detroit and Tris Speaker for Cleveland.

Old Saltie's remarkable come back where they are today? Well their brilliant work helped immeasurably. But what about Eller, Fisher, Luque, Germon and Ring?

Well then the Reds' lightning infield turned the trick.

Frankly the infield has had a lot to do in keeping the team out in front, so has Moran, his pitchers, his outfielders and his trio of receivers.

It was a combination of circumstances, brains and ability that brought the pennant to Reddell. Moran was the man for the managerial post, his players had the native ability, the winning spirit, stamina and courage and the fans stood loyally by the club.

Three long and resounding cheers all and every member of his pennant winning club did. They have brought fame to their leaders themselves, up Gale's All Stars, one of the strongest semi-pro teams in the state, will go up against Big Joe Willis, of Ironton Sunday afternoon at Millbrook Park. This was definitely arranged Tuesday evening when Manager William X. Galdean made arrangements with the manager of the frontier team to bring his aggregation down here next Sunday, with the positive assurance that Joe Willis is to pitch for the visitors.

As though the big southpaw was not enough of an attraction, Manager Galdean has arranged a curtain raiser to start at 1:30 o'clock, booking a game between two colored teams, the Buckeyes of this city and the Blues of Ashland, Ky. These two teams will no doubt furnish more fun and amusement to the square inch than was ever before pulled off for the entertainment of local fandom at beautiful Millbrook Park. The two teams are said to be evenly matched and no doubt the battle will be fought like a iron-cage match in Paradise alley. That is to say it will be a real contest.

The fans of Ironton will send down a large delegation to see the scrap. They believe with Willis pitching their team could set back the Champion Reds. Fact is since the day of Dick Smith, Willis is the leading citizen of Ironton in a baseball sense. Strong as a young bull, possessed of uncanny speed and a varied assortment of curves, he is one of the best southpaws in this part of the country and he will no doubt pitch his head off in order to set back the All Stars, even those of the Norwoods of Cincinnati semi-pro champions of the world.

There have been plenty of exciting games at Millbrook this season, but the two games Sunday promise to be the climax of the season. The two colored teams will furnish all sorts of fun and amusement, and then the Portsmouth-Ironton game will get down to a battle between two determined teams, with plenty of cheers for both. Manager Galdean is to be complimented upon the attention he has given to the attraction to be had Sunday.

Manager Moran of the Reds has decided to keep Pat Duncan in the cleanup slot. With Roush hitting at Huntington high school, for Coach Harry Wilson laid down the training rules yesterday afternoon, putting the eternal quietus on girls, dances, cigarettes, late hours and other things that make life worth living.

There were nearly fifty young men who heard the magna charta read, though some of the more attached gentlemen fainted away at the third dictum. Here are the four high decrees set forth yesterday to the neophytes:

1. No smoking will be tolerated in any form or manner, or at any time. (Dead silence.)

2. On night preceding foot ball games all team members, substitutes and candidates will be in bed not later than one o'clock. (More silence and will be heard from in the big noise.)

BY ZOE BECKLEY

It is easy to imagine things. And own astuteness as to mingle say you get the habit it grows easier thanks and for at getting the Tompkin and easier, bursing all bounds of reason and making you utterly and unnecessarily wretched.

Here am I, a sensible intelligent woman, married eight days to a man I know loves me, and whom I truly love, formulating myself into a nervous fit because my Jim—my nice, big, old, kind-hearted, honest Jim—got a letter from there. You can't say "Oh, if I were there in her place I'd—" etc., etc. If you were really in her place you'd probably do just as she is doing—probably worse.

"And if he hadn't gotten another one just like it today, I doubt if I abysmally excuse I can offer is that marriage has gone a little to my head. The new delation seems so strange, so unique. To realize that Jim actually belongs to me, or, rather, has singled me out from all the women he knows to share his life, for, of course, no person ever belongs to any other person! It seems so wonderful and so precious!" The mere hint of some one else having a claim of any sort on him made my very spirit shudder.

"For heaven's sake, Jim, tell me, before I die of jealousy, who is your pale-green-bordered correspondent?" I cried, masking my concern under a show of facetiousness.

Jim laughed, a one-holed yowl of real amusement, and tossed the letter across the tea-table to me.

"Dear Mr. Sabersby," it read, "Confirming my note of yesterday, I am happy to advise you that you may have the five-room bungalow at the figure you name—$60—, you will about that fool letter. He thought I take a year's lease. Simply send was simply tired out from sight-seeing check covering first month's rent, and left quiet. I'm thankful at least it will be time enough to make the that I didn't cry. I realize that tears final arrangement when you return must be used sparingly in marriage from your trip. Needless to add, I'm wildly happy about the Tompkins greetings to your wife and best kinship bungalow. I wonder if Jim wishes to you both. Sincerely, Cornelia Tompkinson." I pulled out a few of his business envelopes so that we could shorten

There was nothing to do but climb our honeymoon and get into our little around the table and hug Jim as home by the first of the month. I'm quick as I could. I believe I had my skek of sight-seeing, anyhow. I shall fare in his neck as much to hide my ask Jim.

New - York - Day - By - Day
BY
O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—

I have just been.

Up at Newport, I have.

And I went to a horse-show.

For the first time.

And saw more bow-legged men.

With brittle legs.

In half soled britches.

And invisible mustaches.

Than I ever saw before.

And I also saw a dog.

That was named Minnie.

Wearing a rain coat.

And here was a fellow.

With patent leather hair.

Who had a dog.

That were a bathing suit.

And over at Bisley's Beach.

A little bit of a slaver.

In a velvet suit.

With silver buckles.

Sat down in the sand.

And a lady with a lorgnette.

Snatched him up quickly.

And the poor lad looked blue.

And I'd like to take him.

To the old pig pen.

Across the creek back home.

And let him go barefoot.

And make Ge mud-spirit.

Up between his toes.

And everybody's excited.

WHO'S WHO
IN THE DAY'S NEWS

CARDINAL MERCER

Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, now visiting in the U. S., was born at Braine-Pallere, in the very center of Belgium. After his ordination he taught at the seminary at St. Malo for a few years and then was appointed to the chair of philosophy at Louvain University, at the express wish of Pope Leo XIII. It was in that university that he spent the greater part of his career entirely devoted to the study and teaching of philosophy.

He soon made Louvain famous by his school of modern scholastic philosophy. His numerous works have been translated into many languages and it is interesting to note that the Germans fully appreciated his works.

The new delation seems so strange, so unique. To realize that Jim actually belongs to me, or, rather, has singled me out from all the women he knows to share his life, for, of course, no person ever belongs to any other person! It seems so wonderful and so precious!" The mere hint of some one else having a claim of any sort on him made my very spirit shudder.

Speaking Of Names

The children of the neighborhood

WILSON INTERPRETS LEAGUE COVENANT FOR QUESTIONERS

BRITISH CAN NOT OUTVOTE UNITED STATES

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Sept. 18.—Shantung to China, and no other instrumentality or action can be substituted which could bring that result about. The authority of the league, will, under Article X, be constantly directed toward safeguarding the territorial integrity and political independence of China. It will, therefore, also prevent the further spoliation of China, promote the restoration to China of the several privileges now long enjoyed by foreign countries, and assure China of the completion of the process by which Shantung will presently be returned to her in full sovereignty. In the past, there has been a tribunal which could be resorted to for any of these purposes.

4. Is there anything in the League of Nations' covenant or the peace treaty which directly or indirectly in any manner imposes on the United States any obligations, moral or otherwise, of the slightest character to support England in any way in case of revolt in Ireland?

ANSWER.—The consideration which led to assigning six votes to self-governing portions of the British empire is that they have in effect, in all but foreign affairs, become autonomous self-governing states, their policy in all but foreign affairs being independent of the control of the British government and in many respects dissimilar from it. But it is not true that the British empire can outvote us in the League of Nations, and therefore, control the action of the League, because in every matter except the admission of new members in the League, no action can be taken without the concurrence of a unanimous vote of the representatives of the states which are members of the council, so that in all matters of action the affirmative vote of the United States is necessary and equivalent to the united vote of the representatives of the several parts of the British empire. The united votes of the several parts of the British empire cannot offset or overcome the vote of the United States.

5. What effect, if any, will the League of Nations' covenant have in either hindering or furthering the cause of Irish freedom?

ANSWER.—It was not possible for the peace conference to act with regard to the self-determination of any territories except those which had belonged to the defeated empires, but in the covenant of the League of Nations it has set up for the first time in Article XI, a form which all claims of self-determination which are likely to disturb the peace of the world or the good understanding between nations, upon which the peace of the world depends, can be brought.

MAY TRANSFER PEACE CONFERENCE TO BRITISH CAPITAL

PARIS, Sept. 18.—This morning's newspapers speculate on the possibility of the peace conference being transferred to London. Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain is said to have urged the change on the ground that his country is the one most interested in the future status of the Turkish empire, the consideration of which is the principal work remaining before the conference.

Some journals anticipated a final dissolution of the conference, the work of which may be suspended by negotiations between the different foreign envoys.

ANSWER.—The League of Nations will have a very powerful effect in facilitating the final reservation of

Italy Throwing Naval And Military Cordon Around Fiume To Force Its Surrender

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Italy is throwing a naval and military cordon about the city of Fiume, which is still held by Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio's forces. Food supplies of Fiume are reported to be low, and an effort is being made to close all avenues by which stores can be rushed into the city and, thus, to force the surrender of the troops holding the place.

Advisers received here indicate that D'Annunzio's men have entrenched themselves about the city and intend to defend it against any attack which may be made. To the event it is found impossible to hold Fiume, it is said plans have been laid to destroy the city.

General Braglio, deputy chief of staff of the Italian army, is in Fiume and has issued a proclamation calling upon the D'Annunzio troops to return to their units. Some are still to have left the city. General Diaz, commander in chief of the Italian army, has been recalled from his vacation and has been in conference at Rome with King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Nitti. Negotiations relating to the situation at Fiume are being submitted to various censorship by the Italian government but it is reported that Rear Admiral Tschernova, who sailed at Fiume on Tuesday, to restore order is under virtual arrest.

In view of the fact that there were no American developments in Fiume, when D'Annunzio was in power, he has been recalled to Rome.

ANSWER.—The League of Nations will have a very powerful effect in facilitating the final reservation of the League of Nations' covenant. The League of Nations' covenant will have a very powerful effect in facilitating the final reservation of

STEEL STRIKE New International Policy For Protection Of China

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Discussing at length the Shantung question of the peace treaty, President Wilson said in an address here last night that he had been assured by the great powers that under the League of Nations there would be a new international policy for the protection of Chinese integrity.

The President's declarations were received with applause and cheers by the 4,000 women present at the women's luncheon at which he spoke. There were cries of "Hooray" when he asked whether it would be wise to go to war over Shantung. There is no other way, he said, to secure the immediate return of the province to China.

Is "Powerful Vote"
Mr. Wilson also discussed the Monroe Doctrine, Article 10, and the right of withdrawal from the League, resentations on these points and declaring some of the changes proposed but valued merely a question of literary style. Turning to the objection of Great Britain having six votes in the League assembly, Mr. Wilson said it so hoped that "one out of just as powerful as their six." There is no one in which the assembly could vote on any important subject except admission of new members without a decision first having been made by the council in which there was an equality of votes.

Denouncing "hyphenated Americans," the President repeated his charge that a pro-German propaganda again was spreading in the United States.

He said opponents of the treaty were desirous of the same old Germany was desirous,

but asserted his confidence that the treaty would be accepted.

GARY GIVES EXPLANATION

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18.—The Carnegie Steel Company today gave out a letter from E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, addressed to the presidents of the subsidiary companies setting forth the reasons of the corporation for declining miners and explaining the attitude of the concern towards its employees.

The letter states that the corporation does not condone labor unions as such and that it does not negotiate with unions because it would indicate the closing of the shops against nonunion labor.

"It is the settled determination of the United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries," the letter states, "that the wages and working conditions of their employees shall compare favorably with the highest standards of propriety and justice."

Chairman Fitzpatrick of the steel union when asked late this afternoon concerning the postponement of the projected strike said that thought of such action was a "dream."

It was reported that a telegram has been sent to President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, asking him to attend the meeting of the national committee here tomorrow afternoon. Labor leaders refused to discuss the report.

THE PERVERSTY OF THINGS

THE gentleman, who has the hour in the discussion of the world war topics, Count and Commander von Ludendorff, is yet so disgusted with results, that he has a propensity to get tangled up and stumble over his own feet, as it were. His plans, he tells us, for crushing the British and French by the suddenness and force of his March offensive, were so carefully laid and so true to the principles of warfare that failure was an impossibility, but still they went all awry. So he grows rather salty in his explanation and blames things generally for not happening as they should and the British particularly for putting up the stubbornest and most successful fight where they were weakest and just where, according to all the rules, they should have let the Huns break through and finish a fight that everybody was tired of and wanted to see ended.

Yes, he has defeat upon his unlucky star and though he hasn't admitted up to this time that the Americans had anything to do with the marring of his plans and fortunes, he complains bitterly of their rushing such hordes over when there wasn't any ships to carry them in and there was no food to feed them, once they had arrived. It was utterly ruthless in them to defy all precedent and all estimates of the all present G. H. Q.—General Head Quarters, which so painstakingly figured it out couldn't be done, but it was just like those American swine, they cared nothing for the figures and less for humor, which translating the same into our own language and manner is, saying America run hog-wild with G. H. Q., and all its schemes and hopes.

Yet, the Count and Commander maintains his tactics were invulnerable, the result a brilliant victory and demonstration of German superiority that history will record to her eternal renown and glory. There is no reason apparent why it should not go at that, if he is satisfied; the balance of the world is.

THE CONTRARIETY OF THINGS

A daily marching and campaigning with Gen. von Ludendorff we fail to see things as he states them and our conclusions are unanimous with his.

This is true not only as to events, but as to details.

Starting out with the assertion to the effect that as modern warfare is waged an army could advance any time it was prepared to pay the price and it was easier to keep up morale in attack than in retreat, he states his objects in the offensive of 1918. These were to break through in Flanders and capture the channel ports, not to drive to Paris directly. He claims great victories and unbroken show of Germany's fighting ability over France and England.

New let us see as to all this.

He didn't capture Rhenus, which was one of the key points to his forward movement; he didn't break through between the British and the sea, as a matter of fact, he scarcely budged the stubborn Britons along the Belgian front. Therefore he made the sacrifice due for advance, but was stopped short of his goal and subsequently routed and forced to unconditional surrender. That seems like defeat rather than victory for him.

No more is it demonstration of superior fighting quality on the part of the Germans, for as he himself told us as a promise, an army can advance, if it elect to pay the price. This is evident enough also. His strategy was to concentrate the strength of his blow at certain points, unknown to the enemy, and by minor attacks along a wide front prevent them from concentrating where his blow was to come. The question of superiority and "glorious victory" then turned not upon superior fighting as between the armies individually considered, but upon immediate numbers and thus success.

It seems hard, however, for von Ludendorff to concede either inferiority or defeat. Conceding the Americans fought well individually, he criticizes them for not fighting according to established rules and says his troops though inferior in numbers easily drove them back at Chateau Thierry. The facts are exactly the reverse. On all sides Chateau Thierry is held as the turning point of the war. There one division, 20,000 Americans, engaged the Germans, ten divisions strong, 100,000, for the first time. They not only stopped the rush on to Paris, then only a few miles away, but on the third day drove the Germans back. While there was a full division at the front there, the American claim is that only 6,000 Marines took part in the actual fighting, so the superiority was all on the other side, ten Hung to one American.

He can not be seen either how the advance improved the German morale, or else it was utterly bad at the start, as von Ludendorff claims the fruit of "victory" was lessened because thousands were deserting, other thousands rushing to the rear and whole divisions and corps stopping for long and precious periods to gorge on captured food and others claiming to be so tired their commanders could not drive them to make complete and overwhelming an advantage their compatriots had attained elsewhere along the line.

An impression to be got from the General's writing is that his plans were absolutely flawless, they worked out in fulfilling accuracy, but the perverse enemy refused to play the game according to the rule, or else an unlucky star shone, so while the result planned was attained, somehow the effect was not what it should have been.

SHE MARRIED AN AVERAGE MAN

BY JOE BECKER

"Jim," said I this morning, as we were finishing breakfast, "what would you say if your blushing bride suggested shortening the honeymoon?" "What?" cried Jim, scowling with mock fierceness and laying down a bunch of business mail he had been looking over. "Whoever heard of a p. b. wanting her honeymoon shortened? Of course you're joking, just as I am, what's the idea?" Jim returned to his letters as if my reply didn't really matter at all. He has such an odd way of making you feel—how shall I say it?—just cute and pretty and simple—and it's consequential, somehow.

I took pains this time to speak with a little air of firmness and seriousness. "It's this way, Jimmie: Now that you've secured the Tompkinsburg honeymoon, I'm simply crazy to start furnishing and making a real home, dear. Can't we—oops! we sort of compromise the honeymoon in our own little house?"

Jim laid down his mail and tipped his chair back, looking at me curiously. "What's come over you, kid? Haven't I treated you right? Am I boring you? Aren't you enjoying seeing all these new towns and ships and theatres?"

"Oh, of course, Jimmie! I've had such a wonderful time! Only I—no, I could quite see the advantage of a long honeymoon. It's costing so much, too, and I'm a frugal soul!" I added, just as a pleasure, though knowing his true. A girl who has earned her living and had at times to count pennies as I have, just naturally knows the value of money and hates to see it poured out unless an unmistakable return is had.

Jim actually looked hurt, but I replied: Jim actually looked hurt, but I replied: (To be continued.)

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—It is taking a toll of money and the entire legal machinery of the District Attorney's office to fasten the law's clutches on "Kid" Regan, a dapper little pugnacious chisel of Broadway's ring of the underworld. The Kid has a string of aliases, among them being James Ryan, but his real name is Peter F. Regan and he is a brother of Police Lieutenant Martin Regan.

The Kid has been making a hand-book on the rakes with his headquarters on the curb of Broadway just 48th Street. Before that he ran crap games and poker games in various parts of the town. Several times his bankroll has been parted down to the rubber band but The Kid is ingenious and he always shows up serenely with more of the old jack.

Grand Jury Is Investigating Boost In Prices By Physicians

That the grand jury now in session investigated the recent boost in prices by practically every physician in the city was indicated yesterday afternoon when officers of Hempstead Academy, including Dr. O. D. Taft, president and Dr. H. A. Green, secretary, were summoned to appear before that body with their records and testify.

The increased schedule of rates adopted by the Academy was put into effect August 1 and this action of the organization since has come in for considerable criticism and in many quarters it was declared that it was a violation of the Valentine anti-trust law.

Toll In Hurricane Disaster Grows

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS, Sept. 17.—Today, more than 70 hours after the tropical hurricane and tidal wave that tore huge rents in this Texas coast city and environs, it will still be impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the loss of life or damage to property.

Each report from searchers, however, revealed the increasing magnitude of the disaster. It was believed that it might be a week or more before its true extent was known.

The great piles of wreckage strewn from one end of the city to the other may conceal numerous bodies, it is believed, and today hundreds of men were at work exploring them.

Officials generally were agreed that the death list would be in excess of 100 and some unofficial estimates placed it as high as between 200 and 300 with hundreds of persons injured or suffering from exposure.

Estimates of the property loss varied from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

The best available information here today placed the known dead in Corpus Christi at 47. Seven only-seven bodies, all blackened and bruised, were reported to have been washed ashore last night on the northern side of Nueces Bay, upon which Corpus Christi is situated. Of the 27 bodies, the report said, 33 were taken from West Portland, 29 from White Point and 9 from Sinton and one from Odem. Other points also reported the washing ashore of bodies during the night.

Military officials were exerting every resource today to ascertain the fate of 20 or more soldiers who were washed out into the bay while the storm was at its height, and of whom there had been found no trace. The men, members of Company E, 37th Infantry, and other regiments on border duty were at the government rest camp here for a week-end furlough when the camp was washed away.

Captain B. M. Egeland, of Webster, S. D., camp commander, was drowned during the storm and his wife also is believed to have lost her life.

Attempts were being made today to rig out sail boats to cross Nueces Bay to rescue 25 persons who are reported in desperate straits at White Point.

A message from Judge P. A. Hunter of Beeville, Texas, was brought into Corpus Christi today, saying 25 bodies were at White Point and that 25 refugees there were starving. All bodies recovered at White Point will be buried there by a military squad because of the lack of coffins here and because no boats are available with which to transport them seven miles across the bay.

Reports from other smaller towns in the path of the storm stated that the authorities were burying bodies, some unidentified, as rapidly as possible, for sanitary reasons.

Although business here was at a standstill, and wire communication demoralized, a more cheerful spirit seemed to pervade the city, today, due largely, officials thought, to the arrival of relief trains with food and supplies for the thousands made destitute by the storm.

Many strange incidents are coming to light as the story of the storm unfolds. Floating on the open bay mere than two days, a ten months' old baby was hauled to shore late yesterday, fastened to a raft. The baby was alive and in safely good condition.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, Sept. 17—Probably 200 persons died in Corpus Christi and immediate surrounding territory was the estimate made early this morning by Roy Miller, former mayor and citizen of the Corpus Christi relief committee, in a statement to the Associated Press over the telephone.

Plentiful aid in the rehabilitation of Corpus Christi is needed, Mr. Miller declared. "They have lost everything they had except the clothes they were wearing when the storm struck and their need of financial aid is pressing."

Reports brought to Corpus Christi late Tuesday by a man from Rockport, according to Miller, were that 12 persons had lost their lives there and extensive property damage had been done.

dental section, the monetary loss in the business district would be greater. "The south half portion of the city was virtually uninhabited.

"From 3,000 to 4,000 persons here are absolutely destitute," Mr. Miller declared. "They have lost everything they had except the clothes they were wearing when the storm struck and their need of financial aid is pressing."

WILSON ANSWERS IRISH QUESTION

President Replies To Interrogators

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL, Sept. 17.—Setting forth publicly for the first time his interpretation of the League of Nations' covenant as it affected Ireland, President Wilson said in a statement today that the League would constitute a forum before which could be brought all claims for self determination which are likely to affect the peace of the world.

The president's statement detailing the labor council's questions and his answers follows:

1. Under the covenant does the nation obligate itself to assist any member of the league in putting down a rebellion of its subject peoples which was likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world?

ANSWER.—It does not.

2. Under the covenant can this nation independently recognize a government whose people seek to achieve or have achieved their independence from a member of the League?

ANSWER.—The independent action of the government of the United States in a matter of this kind is in no way limited or affected by the covenant of the League of Nations.

3. Under the covenant, are those subject nations or peoples only that are mentioned in the peace treaty entitled to the right of self-determination, or does the League possess the right to accord a similar privilege to other subject nations or peoples?

ANSWER.—It was not possible for Labor, asserted today this did not regard to the self-determination of any strike.

4. Under the covenant, does the League, except those which had belonged to the defeated empires, let in a definite change in the situation until after the meeting of the Central Labor Union next Saturday, at which reports of the strike votes taken during the week will be received from the local unions.

VOTE TO SUPPORT POLICE TO THE LIMIT

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Although nine-tenths of the unions affiliated with the Boston Central Labor Union have voted to support the police "to the limit" in their strike for union recognition, according to a statement made at a meeting of the police union last night by Frank H. McCarthy, local organizer of the American Federation of Labor, asserted today this did not affect the self-determination of any strike.

It was the general feeling among labor men that there would be no definite change in the situation until after the meeting of the Central Labor Union next Saturday, at which reports of the strike votes taken during the week will be received from the local unions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The principal Senate amendment liberalizing the prohibition enforcement bill to permit home manufacture for individual consumption of "non-intoxicating" cider and light wine was accepted yesterday by the house conference and passed finally in the bill subject to action on the conference report.

In amending the Senate amendment authorizing the making of light wines and cider for domestic use the conference today added a further liberalizing provision permitting transports

HERRMANN NOT WORRIED OVER NAT'L CHAMPIONSHIP; HONORS GALORE FOR REDS

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 17.—White "distributing" reports were being received concerning the chairmanship of the national commission in which Judge Landis of Chicago, was mentioned as a successor to Chairman Herrmann, the president of the National League pennant winning club, seemed at all interested and spent a quiet evening with friends, following the victory of the Cincinnati team over the Giants yesterday.

It's a great day for Cincinnati. We won the pennant with the best team in the league. But Moran deserves a word of credit, as do all the players. I do not want to mention the world's series till I recover from the game the day winning the pennant," Herrmann said.

In recognition of the extraordinary work done by the Cincinnati club, the chamber of commerce has planned an elaborate program as a tribute to the players. September 25 is the day set for the testimonial when the Cincinnati Club will be the opponents at Holland Field.

"Take it from me, it's a great strain to be," said Manager Moran of the Reds. "I am proud of my boys; they fought every inch of the journey and did not put on the bray for an instant. I do not want to make a prediction on the world's series, but I can assure the fans that the Reds will play the same kind of ball against the White Sox as they did in the National

TO DECIDE ON STEEL WORKERS STRIKE

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 17.—A definite decision as to whether the president opposed nationwide strike of steel workers will become effective September 22, or be deferred until after the industrial conference in Washington, October 6, will be reached here today by the American Federation of Labor national committee for organizing iron and steel workers.

While it has been announced that the meeting of the national committee will consider plans for the strike only, it is known that certain members will bring up the subject of postponing the walkout until after the Washington conference, as suggested by President Wilson. It is expected by some labor leaders here that sentiment against postponing the strike will be strong in the committee, while others express the opinion that supporters of the plan to defer the walkout will fight hard in support of President Wilson's suggestion.

The national committee is composed of representatives of 21 states and other labor leaders, one of the strongest unions being the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers, which will enter today's conference favoring the strike, according to those in touch with the situation.

OPENING STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Overnight developments pointing to fresh uncertainties in the steel labor situation and authoritative denial of any immediate plan to pay back dividends on increasingly soaring preferred provoked moderate selling of industrial and shipping at the opening of today's stock market. In an important instance, however, did the reaction extend much beyond a point. Bales set in almost immediately on the rawwood strength shown by stocks and equities, also motor specialties. United States Steel's loss of almost a point was soon recovered.

CAPITAL IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE FOR PERSHING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Washington made holiday today to welcome General Pershing and the first division. Every government department and commercial house closed.

Hours before the parade up Pennsylvania Avenue was ready to start every street was peering its thousands along the sidewalks and filling the review stands.

The long set when General Pershing, followed by his picked corps command which he led in the Victory parades in London and Paris, would begin the march was 1 p.m. It was estimated that nearly half a million people would see the spectacle, the only elaborate military display of the year so far as the national capital is concerned.

Fiume Isolated As Italy Acts To Quell Revolt

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Fiume has been isolated from the world by the Italian government, which is apparently taking steps to meet the situation that has arisen through the action of Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio, in forcibly taking possession of the city and forcing allied and Jugo-Slave forces to leave. The veil of censorship was drawn yesterday, and since that time little has been learned of events in the city.

The Jugo-Slav peace delegation in Paris has issued a statement indicating that Italian regular troops are moving on the city. The Italian battleship Dante Alighieri is said to have been damaged by her crew and has been unable to leave the port of Fiume. French, American and British reinforcements, which were in the city at the time of D'Annunzio's coup, are reported to have landed ships and departed.

Oh Boy! Joyous Reds Beat Giants And Cinch The Pennant

Clinching Game Was Turned In Tuesday

Salute the Champion Reds. They won the National League title yesterday when they again defeated their nearest rival, the Giants, 4 to 3. When New York dropped this game, the club was put out of the running. It can win all its other games and the Reds lose 10 of them for the Moran men would finish in front.

The Reds drove Toney from the box yesterday and by clever uphill playing overtook the Giants and finished ahead of them after their opponents got away with two run lead in the opening stanza.

The Reds came right back and made three runs on solid hitting. The Giants tied it up in the fourth and the Reds won it out in the seventh on Schreiter's double, Harlan's sacrifice and Schreiter's clean steal of home.

The Giants may win another pennant but not this year.

THE FIGURES AGAINST FANCIES

INCE peace came, foreign residents in this country have been returning to their native lands in some number. There is nothing unusual in this migration. For years, ever since the people of southern Europe began to make the predominant emigration, it has been going on. Greeks, Austrians and Hungarians of different races have not emigrated here to become citizens. Hundreds of thousands abide here only long enough to accumulate sum that will maintain them in comfort in the place where they were born. Acquiring this they turn their faces homeward.

They have done so to no greater extent this year than ever, but because none could depart for a couple of years, restrained both by fear and lack of transportation, the return to former way has been notable and a mighty ad is being made about it. We had the first story of hundreds crowding the docks and carrying bundles of wealth with them. Now we have it down to exact number and date. An even one million, three hundred thousand will have sailed away by the first of January next and they will have carried off an even five billion dollars.

There is just one thing about this story, you did not have to believe it. It has a whole lot of fancy in it and an infinitesimal shading of fact. There are some temporary residents going back to Europe. The emigration bureaus have counted them and knows exactly how many; it also has a good idea of the amount of money each one is taking with him. With this knowledge it is able to say positively that the return of emigrants for 1919 can by no possibility reach one-fifth of the proportion set down as "the flight" and so far it is not half of what it was in the last year preceding the war.

AND THE LITTLE ACORN GREW

THE first temperance society in the United States was organized in New England, somewhere around two hundred years ago.

Nothing unusual in that statement, you say. All that is good and prayerful in this land has come out of that godly region.

Not so fast, however. May be the present mighty oak of prohibition sprouted and grew from the planting in the drear and granite hill of New England. But if it did then the species altered its character as it progressed toward maturity.

If you will but read the pledge, taken by that first temperance you will find it so, the pledge reading as follows:

"We, the undersigned, believing in the evil effects of strong drink, do hereby pledge ourselves, upon our sacred honor, that we will not get drunk more than four times a year: Muster Day, Fourth of July, Thanksgiving and Christmas."

It is a sharp cry from that pledge to prohibition principle, judge critically a some distance even from temperance, but it would never do to dispute that New England is the eternal and perpetual source of all that is moral and holy, the claim as the first temperance society must stand.

AND THIS IS MASSACHUSETTS

ONE of those survey committees innumerable and therefore its name not being material, having its headquarters in Boston, makes report that one person out of every eight in the state, does not know the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, a good portion not even knowing so much as vaguely what these titles refer to.

Mind you that is counting in Boston, which sets itself up as being the most cultured city on earth. Sometimes, of course, culture is not coupled with piety, but at that if is supposed to know things that everybody knows. Such, however, seems not to be the case in this instance, from which we may infer that Boston isn't as learned as she pretends and of piety she has less.

BETTER THAN A TON

A New York paper submitted the following query to Vice-Pres. Thomas C. Marshall, by wire:

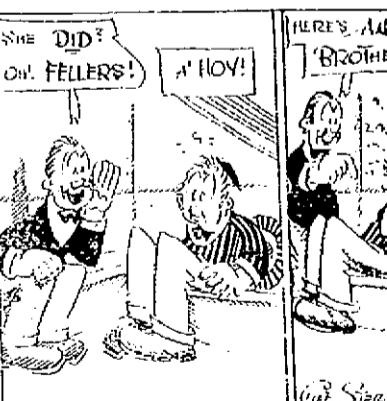

Is the American form of government, as now in operation, the best in the world? Answer with no more than 300 words.

"It is."

But was the answer that went back and neither 300 words, nor 100 could have put the argument so conclusively.

They are digging up the pavements and streets now to lay out for telephone wires. Years like this town was built backwards, can't make one improvement without tearing up another. Besides, don't you, that our streets were all paved before mains and sewers were put in? If you don't, a ride over them will tell you a terrible story.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

CARDINAL MERCER

Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, now visiting in the U. S., was born at Braine l'Alleud, in the very center of Belgium. After his ordination he taught at the seminary at Malines for a few years and then was appointed to the chair of philosophy at Louvain University at the express wish of Pope Leo XIII. It was in that university that he spent the greater part of his career, entirely devoted to the study and teaching of philosophy.

He soon made Louvain famous by his school of modern scholastic philosophy. His numerous works have been translated into many languages and it is interesting to note that the Germans fully appreciated his works, one of his books even becoming a classic at the University of Halle.

On February 7, 1905, he was raised to the Archiepiscopal See of Malines, and was created cardinal a few months later. A titular member of the Belgian Academy long before becoming an archbishop, he has since the war been made a member of the Institute de France, the Royal Academies of Madrid and Turin, and many other learned societies. Several universities, among which are Oxford, Cambridge, Trinity College and Edinburgh have offered him honorary degrees, and the Academy of Moral and Political Sciences of Paris awarded to him the Grand Prix Audited—all this in recognition of his stand through the war.

And the poor kid looked blue.

And I'd like to take idea.

And let him go before.

That gives under the feet.

Like stepping on a cat.

The children of the neighborhood had been greatly interested by the
